

Join the Conversation: Share in the #OurFoodHasAStory Contest

We all eat food, and have a perceived connection – direct or indirect – to the food we eat. Just close your eyes and recall the scent of your grandma’s homemade bread; that ‘ah-ha’ moment when you first learned that pasta was made from durum wheat grown right here in Saskatchewan; the agonizing decision as to which of the mouthwatering pies you’d pick at the local fowl supper; or the pride you felt upon rave reviews for a meal you prepared with ingredients selected with much care and attention.

Your food story could be related to values, tradition, trust, affordability, safety, sustainability, health and/or community. It could align with Thanksgiving, harvest, or maybe an Ag Month event that happened in your community. A food story can happen when you try a new recipe or teach your kids how to cook; in casual conversations at the meat counter or in social situations, with family and friends. No matter our background, or link to agriculture, we all have a connection to food, and a story or two to tell!

We want to hear your food stories! All you have to do is:

- Post a relevant food story text, picture, or video on Facebook\*, Twitter and/or Instagram.
- Include the hashtag #OurFoodHasAStory in your post.

\ If using Facebook, please ensure the Privacy Setting for that post is set to Public so that others can see it and share it.*

Tell us a story, and have a little fun doing it. You could even tag other friends on social media to do the same! We all need to talk about the values we share as Saskatchewan people – stories about how we produce food responsibly, safely, affordably and sustainably will do just that! It’s a story worth sharing and celebrating.
